and problem-solving type exercises. While I wrote some of the solutions myself, most were written originally by students in the database classes at Wisconsin. I'd like to thank the many students who helped in developing and checking the solutions to the exercises; this manual would not be available without their contributions.

Solutions for Section 15.8 Exercise 15.8.1(a) The way we have defined the recursive algorithm, it always divides relations into M-1 pieces (100 pieces in this exercise) if it has to divide at all. In practice, we may have options to use fewer pieces at one or more levels of the recursion, and in this exercise there are many such options.
