(Automatic camera, remember?) The original C35's don't have many electronic parts. So there's not much else electronic to go bad (just mechanical). The majority of Konica C35 light meter problems are from a broken wire or bad connection. This can be caused by battery corrosion. This is probably the #1 repair issue, aside from stuck shutters or ...

The Konica is a solid little camera that has a very good lens and enough features for a fun afternoon of shooting. It's a compact camera with programmed trap-needle autoexposure with a limited ASA range and no manual speeds except B. However, if you can work within its limits, you have an excellent pocketable companion.
